"It is well known that Serial Killers and Terrorists roam many of the planets in the World of Progress. What is not well known, is the fact that there are certain people that strive to understand why these people exist. The members of the Psychological Operations Package are more than just Operatives, they are leaders and thinkers. It is their job to profile, and relate to people who may have mental instabilities. And although most do have combat training, it is their Charisma and Social skills that they rely on the most."

Psychological Operations Package

From the lonely Psychologist, to the overt public relations representative, these men and women rely on their ability to get people to like them, and then sell them on some idea or proposition.

Recently, with the rash of Serial Killers and the paranoia of Operatives, more and more Psychological Operations Specialists have been taken into squads.

Proven effective in diplomatic situations, and those situations that involve people with mental aberrations, the Psychological Operations operatives have shown that you do not always need a weapon to take down a killer. Sometimes, all you need is a little research, planning, and a lot of talking.
